

Maybe reconsider a shipping date that is not 2 years in the future? I am not sure if this solves the problem or if there is another problem. But checking dates and making them consistent helps in many cases. But it also depends on your actual accounting period.