

So, after multiple tries i ended up opening another link i found in the browser and not the one given in the slides since it doesn't work and i logged in using the zope credentials. The problem is i don't know if i should proceed with this one because it has a totally different layout from what the professor showed us during the lecture. I have included the layout image in the attachment.