

The steps you mentioned are correct.

My reply to change user/password was a response to the problem that the person asking had maybe changed the password to something else and should redo it. There is no step or tutorial telling you to change the user/password. I thought it might be done accidentally.